I. Call to Order: Senate President Melissa Broeckelman-Post (MBP) called the meeting to order at 3.01pm.

II. Approval of the Minutes of November 15, 2023: Approved with correction: on p. 6, change “sustained, important contributions” to “sustained and impactful contributions.” (Senator Mohan Venigalla).

III. Special Orders
   - Marvin Lewis: Intercollegiate Athletics Initiatives
     - Started at Mason July 1, 2023. Has been a whirlwind getting to know the university and stakeholders but extremely fun.
     - Background: Originally from Silver Spring, MD so excited to be back in the area. My family is all still here. Former student athlete, played men’s basketball at Georgia Tech. Four-year starter and 2-year captain, competed for a National Championship – in Final Four two years before Mason. Graduated with a business degree and worked in public accounting with a goal of being a financial advisor for athletes and teammates. But missed working in higher education – went back to work at Georgia State, Georgia Tech, University of Maryland, and Brown University.
     - Now I’m excited to be at Mason. There is so much momentum and one of our most successful years:
       - Last year we won 3 conference championships for the first time in 10 years: softball (first ever), baseball, women’s track and field.
       - Over 20 programs with >3.0 GPA.
       - 60% growth in social media engagement.
       - Raised $1.7 million in fundraising, more than our 10-year average. Balanced operating budget, 2000+ hours of community service and I think we can do better.
     - Vision: three things are crucial to create a great environment at Mason.
       - Transformational experiences for student-athletes, grounded in education. The first priority is to graduate student-athletes. Also ensure they have memorable experiences.
       - Championship culture: Recruit, hire, and retain quality staff, roadmap for success, celebrate wins
       - Tell our story: athletics as the “front porch” of the university. Competing in the Final Four really put Mason on the map and helped people see our potential. I want to do that again by elevating all programs so that others can see all the good work that faculty do and the impact you make on students and in the community.

- The goal for first 100 days is to listen, learn, and lead. Have met over 400 individual stakeholders (internal and external) in the first five months. It’s great to see how passionate they are and invested in our mission. They see potential for our future – really exciting to be on this campus right now.

- Immediate action steps:
  - Restructuring leadership team to be more efficient and aligned with strategic values.
  - Initiated search for senior fundraiser.
  - Adjusted communications strategy and meeting cadence.
  - Enhanced external messaging and distribution strategy, e.g. quarterly newsletter, Inside Mason Nation, and Patriot Brew, an email that comes out every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

- Year 0 assessment phase: organizational health, fundraising, time and score, strategic playbook, staffing and infrastructure assessment, and visual identity refresh.

- How faculty can help
  - The relationship between athletics and campus community is crucial. Come to games and bring a friend; open any doors – leverage relationships with companies and nonprofits, explore collaborative research opportunities; support (“time, talent, or treasure’’); tell our story.

- We are on the rise right now and all the support we can get would be really helpful as we look to round out the season.

- Questions
  - MBP: How do we make it easier to get to basketball games?
    - Dominique Banville and I will be looking into this in the next few months, exploring ideas like faculty ticket opportunities and department events. Please also send your feedback on what you’d like to see.

IV. Committee Reports

Senate Standing Committees

- Executive Committee
  - Talked about items that will be covered by other committee reports.

- Academic Policies (Dominique Banville)
  - AP 1.7
    - The Graduate Council has requested an update regarding re-enrollment after previous attendance.
      - Motion to approve language carried by acclamation.

- Fall 2024 calendar- election day
Professor Jennifer Victor has been running studies on student election participation and finds that turnout on campus has been much lower than county turnout rates. Students also lack knowledge about election eligibility and processes. Proposing to offer a holiday on Election Day, in line with Mason QEP to promote civic engagement.

Motion to establish Election Day as a student holiday

- Discussion
  - Senator Jamie Clark: I noticed this is on the calendar for 2024 as a university holiday. Is this motion to establish this going forward?
    - Doug McKenna (registrar): This is a university (and federal) holiday for 2024 due to the Presidential Election. The motion is about whether to make this a holiday for students every year (i.e. no classes), whether or not the university is open.
    - Deb Dickenson (in chat): We have to consider total Mason holidays and we use Election Day for winter break coverage, so we are only planning the university holiday for the Presidential election.
  - Senator Zachary Schrag: If we do this, it should be done every year. Virginia has off-year elections and usually has an election every year and their turnout matters most at the state and local levels.
  - Senator Mohan Venigalla: Also emphasizing that we have elections in Virginia every year.
  - Senator Tim Curby: Since this is already taken off the table for next year (as it is already a holiday), could we gather data next year before making it a permanent thing?
    - Jennifer Victor: We have done studies over the last couple of years. Agree with point about elections being every year. Our studies show that students face barriers, in part because they have a choice as to whether they vote here or at home. This creates confusion as to how best to engage. To accurately find out the percentage of students who vote at Mason we have to rely on external data (with methods that are not entirely transparent), and the only way to know is to get the voter file from every state. This costs $5,000 in Virginia alone. We have grant funding for Virginia this year but it is not feasible to collect the kind of data you’re suggesting. What we do know is that many of our students choose to vote elsewhere (not on campus). So, we would benefit greatly from making this a permanent holiday.

- Senator John Dale: Symbolically it is important to do this, to show that we are cultivating community engagement. Voting it down would speak loudly. It is in our interests to support this.

- Senator Bijan Jabbari: I believe we have an exit survey for graduates. Maybe this could be embedded as a question (e.g. would an Election Day holiday help) as an additional data point. Also, would making this a holiday cause turnout on campus to be even lower?
  - Jennifer Victor: No data on that exact question, but we do more broadly know that when barriers to voting are lowered participation rates tend to go up. There is a lot of context around this, but if we made it a holiday and didn’t tell students that would be a problem; however, if we combined it with an all-out effort to encourage participation and voting it would help. I’m also working with University Life to incorporate information about registration and voting into Preamble and orientation activities. All of these strategies together should help to increase turnout. Re: the exit survey, not a bad idea but the research does show that recall about past voting activities isn’t very reliable.

- Jack Fedak (student government rep): We polled students and found that 59.4% supported the holiday but there was a split on which academic calendar day should be changed to support the holiday.

- Tom Wood: In support of this, having been here when we established the precinct on campus. I would encourage avoiding the word “holiday” and calling it something like “civic engagement day.”

- Senator Solon Simmons: Reiterate John’s point about symbolism and support the word “holiday,” based on its original meaning as a day of observance.

- Senator Delton Daigle: Move to call it a civic engagement day (this was held in order to vote on the original motion but was not seconded).
• Motion to hold Election Day as a student holiday approved by unanimous acclamation.
• Next question is how to add this to the academic calendar. The proposal is to keep Fall Break on a Monday but have the next day (Tuesday) stay on a Tuesday schedule, add Election Day, and then change the first Monday reading day to a class day so that there are the same number of classes on each day of the week. The other option is to eliminate Fall Break. Students prefer the first option.
  • Discussion
    o Senator Jamie Clark: Clarify – Fall semester classes would always finish on a Monday.
    o Senator Delton Daigle: Want to hear student perspective. However, either option would mean that we don’t have to have the weird situation of holding Monday classes on Tuesday.
    o Jack Fedak: Of the 126 votes in favor of observing Election Day, 90 wanted to eliminate the reading day and 36 wanted to eliminate Fall Break. Students like the timing of Fall Break and don’t want to lose a holiday. Students were also conscious that Indigenous People’s Day is observed on the day of Fall Break.
  • Motion to eliminate reading day and no longer hold Monday classes on Tuesday after Fall Break approved by acclamation (not unanimous).
• Budget and Resources (Delton Daigle)
  o Faculty salary data will not come out until after February’s BOV meeting, as HR wants to run following the salary adjustments that go into effect December 10.
  o Funding disparity between Mason and other VA public universities: we need to be contacting our legislators about this disparity. We are hoping to get guidance from Deb Dickenson’s office about some talking points we can share.
    ▪ Recent BOV meeting: SCHEV recommended a $25 million increase to our base operations. This is about 12%, substantially larger than our peer institutions, which will help. Slides are available on the BOV website.
    ▪ Senator Mohan Venigalla: As representative to the BOV Finance and Land Use Committee, I want to share some positive things that happened at the meeting. Deb and President Washington made presentations and then members of the board, students, staff, and faculty who were present chimed in to support addressing the disparity.
      • Thanks to Visitor Witeck for your kind words about the university and the faculty. He stated that having served under three presidents over seven years, he believes the institution is the “pinnacle of efficiency” and that faculty are doing more with less.

- Visitor Witeck: I detect that the board is united on this issue and will work closely with faculty, staff, and students to get this issue addressed. I am impatient when thinking about how we have been disadvantaged and we need to be expressing this argument every day. You have been sharing this information with me and I am happy to carry some of that water for you.

- Questions
  - Senator Tim Gibson:
    - The Virginia Conference of the AAUP and Virginia Faculty Senate is holding a VA higher education advocacy day on January 11, which is an opportunity for universities all over the state to lobby on various issues with some coaching around talking points prior to meeting with legislators. Will share more information when available.
      - MBP: We also have Mason Lobby Day on February 15.
      - Senator Kerry LaCharite: Travel grants are available for the advocacy day. You do not need to be a senator but must be a faculty member at Mason to be eligible.

  - In the last meeting we had a question about why the Law School was exempted from the budget cuts. Has this been looked into, and can you share more information about why they were exempted and why this was done in closed session?
    - Visitor Witeck: The information shared about that was intended for the closed session; I still feel constrained in sharing that information. There were issues around administration that are unique to the school. We made a very, I would say, rushed decision based on the information provided that day and I think there will be follow-up conversations. In my view this discussion is not completed, so don’t want to say too much now, but will take this issue back and discuss with Deb what we can and can’t say.
    - Deb Dickenson: This question can only be addressed by a board member during a meeting.
• Senator Tim Gibson: Could one of our faculty representatives to the board raise this question in open session?
• Visitor Witeck: I agree with you about this issue, and I also need to bring this back to our Rector and president to indicate the need to address this.
• Senator Alan Abramson: My understanding is that not only are the Law School not contributing to the budget cuts, they are also not paying the overheads that other units are paying to the central administration. This raises a big question from an equity standpoint, and I would add this to the questions the Rector needs to respond to.
• Senator Delton Daigle: In the last open session of the BOV there was a call to learn more financial information about the Law School and to put this on the agenda for the next meeting. Make sure to attend the next meeting.
• Senator Mohan Venigalla: I would love to ask this question as a faculty representative – questions need to be vetted. There is not much time to ask questions. Please send me the question you want to ask, and I would be happy to ask it.

• Faculty Matters (Mohan Venigalla)
  o In the last meeting we mentioned the idea of a new promotion track based on service and leadership. We are in the process of socializing the idea and examining how it could be achieved. Too premature to share with the Senate now, but it is in progress. Another issue that is being discussed in the committee is evergreen contracts for term faculty.
• Nominations (Bijan/Richard)
  o Ana Stoehr for Mason Core to replace Andrea Zach
    • Approved by unanimous acclamation.
• Organization and Operations (Lisa/Charlotte)
  o Senate Standing Rules
    • Standing rules have not been updated since the 1970s and 1980s – revisions are designed to simplify and bring these into the new century.
    • Key changes:
      • Revising membership number limits on committees, which were not being followed. Previously committees were between 5 and 7 members; revised to state only that they should contain at least one senator to reflect larger committees based on task forces around recent issues.

- Clarifying how business should come before the Senate
  - If it is not clear where business should go, it should come to O&O as has always been the case in the standing rules.

- We have invited the Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs and Development to our Executive Committee meetings this year, as much of our work overlaps with this office. Proposing to make this permanent.

- Rules previously required all committees to give an oral presentation of annual reports in the final meeting, which would be unmanageable. Clarified that annual reports should simply be sent to the Clerk.
  - MBP: Clarification: there is no change here. Nothing highlighted in track changes.

- Questions
  - Senator Zachary Schrag: What is the relationship between the new Rule 3 and current Senate bylaws that cover how committees send items to the Senate? My concern is that items come to the agenda in a timely fashion so that Senators have a chance to read them. For example, AP1.7 from Academic Policies was on the agenda today but the actual language was not available.
    - LB: I expect this would be a standing rules issue, and a good discussion issue.
  - Senator Jamie Clark: Want to second this issue about not being able to review new policy language before the meeting.
  - Senator Tim Gibson: Regarding point 2 (committee membership). What is the rationale behind changing these numbers?
    - LB: We have noted that we’ve been out of compliance with the original language for a long time with many committees (e.g. Faculty Handbook committee, with 3 members). We wanted to give a minimum rather than a maximum. We also note that as the institution grows, committees need to be bigger. So, we are trying to give the opportunity for flexibility. If something needs to be a small committee, we want to give the opportunity to build that.
Senator Tim Gibson: So, it doesn’t seem that this would change the composition between faculty and administration, just updating antiquated language.

LB: Yes. O&O doesn’t make decisions about who goes on the committees, we create the general structure and send to nominations to fill the roles.

- Going back to committee for revisions
  - ZS: Would like to see a statement that documentation relating to agenda items needs to be provided with the agenda. This is already in the bylaws.
  - LB: We might have to have a provision to allow for urgent items to be included. We will attempt to get this out on the agenda for the next meeting.

- Motion to extend the meeting until 4:30 approved by acclamation (not unanimous).

Other Committees/Faculty Representatives
- Athletic Council
- External Academic Relations
- Grading Policies Task Force (Senator Alexandra Masterson)
  - We are actively forming teams (qualitative and quantitative) and gathering data to get a perspective on what grading schemes units are using.
  - We are aware that this varies throughout the campus and eventually we would like to vote and agree on a scheme that will meet the needs of all our students.
  - We are including peer institutions and recommendations from SCHEV in this process and gathered from the COACHE committee.
  - We want to be inclusive of all students and also ensure they are competitive when applying to graduate programs at other universities. We will be working to accommodate a wide spectrum of needs.
  - Questions
    - Senator Solon Simmons: The Carter School is a small unit, and we don’t have a representative to this task force. Is it important to have full representation?
      - I believe it is. Also calling on co-chair Seth Hudson to respond.
      - Senator Seth Hudson: We found, even in the early meetings, that the concerns of different stakeholders in various disciplines that we take for granted in our own disciplines can get lost in the shuffle. We’re also not closed to anyone who is interested in sharing insights. Not everyone wants to dig into the data, but everyone has a place at the table even if being on the task force is too much of a burden.

- Writing Across the Curriculum Committee
- Effective Teaching Committee (Tom Wood)
  - We have put together a Qualtrics survey to gather information about teaching evaluations in different units. Thank you to the Provost’s Office for help in circulating this. Please let me know if you want to see the instrument – happy to share that information.
  - We have a new email address for questions and communication: etc@gmu.edu
  - Will have new information to share next semester.

V. New Business: None.

VI. Announcements

- Interim Provost Walsh
  - You may have seen the announcement that Anne Osterman was appointed as Dean of the University Libraries.
  - Wish the faculty an opportunity for rest and recharge over the break and to return safe and healthy in spring.
- EVP Dickenson
  - Regarding advocacy question, I have spoken with Government Relations and we recommend that there be one joint letter from Faculty Senate and Staff Senate that focuses on legislative priorities. Sending individual letters to legislators might be confusing. The General Assembly will start meeting in January.
  - Mason Lobbies is a student-led event – faculty and staff can participate, but that needs to be coordinated via student government.
- Faculty-led events about Israel and Palestine
  - Senator Solon Simmons: Carter School is engaging in conversations and events regarding the situation in Gaza. Mainly a student event to talk about how the university is responding to this international issue.
- Mason Lobbies- Feb 15
  - Jack Fedak: Contact Illia Sheikholeslami: isheikho@gmu.edu regarding participation or questions. Working on a sign-up form for non-students.
  - As committee charges are being reconsidered, please let me know if there are places for students on these committees.
- Virginia Higher Education Day- Jan 11
  - From chat: Travel Grants: The Faculty Senate of Virginia (FSVA) will provide limited travel grants for faculty who attend VHEAD 2024 but are not receiving travel support from their school. The travel grants will cover part or all of mileage and parking, and in some cases overnight lodging. Faculty must be affiliated with an FSVA-member school. For more information about the FSVA travel grants please contact Carmen Rodriguez at: president@facultysenateofvirginia.org.

- Faculty/staff choir (Lisa Billingham)
  - Gathering interest for choir: fill out interest form at https://forms.office.com/r/tB7VqS9VD0
  - Planning a trip to Austria/Czechia with students and faculty next summer.

VII. Remarks for the Good of the General Faculty: None.

VIII. Adjournment: The meeting was adjourned at 4:31pm. Happy holidays and finals week!

Respectfully submitted,
Charlotte Gill, PhD
Faculty Senate Secretary
STANDING RULES OF THE FACULTY SENATE

1. At the beginning of the academic year, it shall be the responsibility of the chairs of the Senate standing committees and the chairs of university faculty standing committees to verify the continuing presence on the George Mason University faculty of all members of each committee. Committee (co)chairs shall be responsible for notifying the Chair of the Senate Committee on Nominations of any vacancies.

2. Each elected Senate standing committee shall include members from more than one college or school. Membership in University standing committees is determined by the Organization and Operations Committee and should contain at least one senator.

3. Committee chairs may submit business items and reports for inclusion in the Senate agenda on behalf of their committees before the meeting agenda is posted. Senate committee chairs may also bring new business to the floor during their committee reports on behalf of their committees.

   Any member of the General Faculty may submit items of business for inclusion in the agenda prior to the agenda being posted. All items submitted which are consistent with the responsibilities of the Senate as defined in Article III are to be placed on the agenda under New Business. Items that are clearly aligned with the responsibilities of a specific Senate or University Standing Committee shall be referred to that committee. All other items shall be referred to the Organization and Operations Committee, which shall refer items to the committee it deems most appropriate; the Organization and Operations Committee shall report its referrals at the next regular meeting of the Senate.

4. The Executive Committee of the Senate is composed of the Senate President, the Senate Secretary, the chairs of the Faculty Senate Standing committees, and the chair of the Faculty Handbook Committee. The responsibilities of the Executive Committee are to meet regularly with the Provost, Executive Vice President for Finance and Administration, and the Vice Provost for Faculty Affairs and Development, and other members of the central administration as needed for discussion and resolution of matters raised by Senate Standing Committees and the broader faculty. The Executive Committee shall act for the Senate during the summer months, when the full Senate does not normally meet.

5. Each standing committee of the Senate shall produce an annual report at the end of the academic year that identifies accomplishments and completed tasks, a record of participation of committee members, and a list of items of business remaining unfinished. These reports should be sent to the Senate Clerk.

APPENDIX B
OTHER COMMITTEES

Athletic Council
Submitted by Dominique Banville

Report for the Faculty Senate – Update from the Athletic Council

The Athletic Council had its first meeting of the Academic Year on October 31, 2023. In attendance were Marvin Lewis, Nena Rodgers, Zack Bolno, Malcolm Grace, Yashika Chidira, Malik Henry, Anka Whelan, Janette Muir, Pam Patterson, Patrick McCavitt, Dara Finley, Margaret Jones, Jatin Ambegaonkar, Ali Weinstein, Bob Baker, and Dominique Banville, Chair.

Marvin Lewis, the new Athletic Director (AD) introduced himself to the group. He shared how his first 100 days were focused on Listening, Learning, and Leading. He has identified six priorities for Inter-Collegiate Athletics (ICA): Organization Health, Fund Raising strategies, Staffing and Infrastructure Assessment, Visual Identity refresh, and Strategic Playbook. He will be seeking the help of the committee by encouraging everyone to attend events, establish partnerships with ICA, provide advice, and help tell “our” story.

Nena Rogers, Deputy AD and Senior Woman Administrator, then provided an update on the renovations of the locker rooms in the Field House. Additional shower facilities were added to better accommodate Student-Athletes (SAs) and coaches. After some delays, the project should be completed by January 15, 2024.

The two SAs on the committee shared with us some of the initiatives SAAC has been involved with since the beginning of the AY. They are committed to bringing back events that used to be popular pre-COVID and establishing new traditions to get as many people involved as possible.

As Faculty Athletic Representative, Dominique is working with ICA and Real Recruit to shift the “end-of-the-year” survey to an “end-of-the-season” survey so that a better response rate is obtained. Questions about the coaching staff will be added to have SAs perspective on this very important aspect of their experience. Additionally, Dominique is working with Marvin to identify ways to get faculty and staff more involved in athletic events.

Finally, Malcom Grace, Deputy AD for Compliance and NCAA Governance, provided legislative updates related to NIL and changes to the Transfer Portal Window.
Higher Education Advocacy Day will be Thursday January 11, 2024
- The Faculty Senate of Virginia has funds to reimburse faculty for hotel and gas for those coming from further away.
- The top choice in topics is Democratic Representation of Faculty on the universities and colleges board of visitors. The Faculty Senate of Virginia is looking for statutory language to allow all faculty senates to choose their one representative.
  - It is believed that this will be a bipartisan issue.

Governor’s inquiry of the role of the board of visitors of a Virginia public institution of higher learning. More specifically, whether Virginia law imposes upon such boards a duty to serve the interests of the university or college only, or the Commonwealth more broadly.
- This inquiry came out of a question raised by UVA BOV members in July and not related to Mason.
- There is speculation that Governor Youngkin may more authority of Virginia’s higher education institutions.

State Council of Higher Education (SCHEV)
- Peter Blake, Director of SCHEV is retiring and there is a search for new SCHEV Director. The position should be filled by the end of 2023.
- SCHEV will hold Orientation for new BOV members

President Washington will speak as part of the 2023 Virginia Education Summit
- Joint meeting of The Senate Committee on Education and Health and the House Education Committee
- Date: December 4-5th, 2023 in Richmond, VA and Chesterfield, VA
- Panel: The Importance of Early Exposure to Postsecondary and Career Pathways

JMU shared their process for creating a guiding document and process to activate shared governance.
- They explored structures, practices, and communication. They are now moving to implementation.
- JMU Shared Governance Task Force
Recent Activity: November 3rd Meeting on Teams (14 attendees, 1:00 – 2:30 PM)

In our meeting we toured the task force’s MS Teams space for file sharing and communication and continued on with reports/discussion from our working groups (see October report, included below).

Updates from working groups:

1. Quantitative Team (focused on Mason): Access to full grade set granted; next step will be descriptive analysis. Also in the works, text-based data from catalog to review for unit-level policies.
2. Qualitative Team: Identifying data sources for potential interviews/surveys. Performing literature review for examples from other institutions having gone through the same process.
3. Report on Peer Institutions (incl. COACHE institutions) grading systems.

Next steps: Planning to meet again in January, co-chairs will collect scheduling information to identify a mutually convenient meeting time in Spring 2024.

+++ REPORT ARCHIVES
(ARCHIVE)Faculty Senate Report – Submitted October 16th, 2023

Activities to date: GPTF met once so far this semester (September 15th, 2023)

After discussing the charge, the committee identified several specific areas for immediate action in information gathering. These included:

- Quantitative data on Mason grades
- Reports on existing unit-level policies (from Catalog)
- Qualitative study design to assess stakeholder attitudes
- Literature/media on ‘best practices’
- Peer institutions processes (COACHE)

Committee members formed subgroups to approach these topics and report back during our next meeting.
Writing Across the Curriculum
Submitted by Tom Polk

The WAC Committee held its second meeting of the academic year on November 10, 2023. Members received updates on the ongoing Writing-intensive (WI) enhancements process and viewed aggregate results of the WI courses that are currently being reviewed as part of that process. Findings from this review reveal that units articulate few or no details about the kinds of writing instruction offered in their WI courses. This finding is significant because WI courses are expected to provide explicit instruction on writing in the course. Following, members discussed what counts as “significant instruction” (a core criterion of the WI course category) and how it might help faculty articulate the kinds of instruction they offer to student. The committee resolved to offer guidance on this matter and began to brainstorm possible projects to pursue this aim and better support faculty who teach writing across the curriculum. The committee will return to this discussion at its upcoming December meeting.
